DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. The priority claim is defective because it fails to include a reference to the earlier filed PCT application. Without the reference to the PCT application, applicants are not entitled to the foreign priority date as set forth in the declaration because more than one year would have elapsed between the two application filings. Additionally, it is not understood why applicants have stated that this application is a division of the parent; in fact, the claims of this application are directed to the same invention as that elected and prosecuted in the parent, and therefore this application appears to be a continuation. In sum, it would appear that applicant's intended priority claim should properly read (as an amendment to the preliminary amendment to the specification filed 3/3/2004): "This application is a continuation of 09/939,097, filed 8/24/2001, now US Patent 6,727,332, which is a continuation of PCT/EP00/01736, filed 2/25/2000."

Furthermore, applicants' amendment to the specification filed 3/3/2004 did not specify that the new insertion was to replace paragraph 0001 in the specification as filed, and therefore it is still in the specification as originally filed. Accordingly, the portion of paragraph 0001 which appears to be a priority claim should be deleted.

Search and application of the prior art is based upon the presumption that the papers filed in this application represent an intent to claim priority to the foreign application filed 2/26/1999.

Specification

2. The abstract filed 8/5/2004 is objected to because it has no period at its end.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 11-13 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-6 of U.S. Patent No. 6,727,332 in view of EP 881236. Despite minor changes in wording and scope, the instant claims are essentially the same as those already patented except for the additional limitation in the instant claims which requires the polymer to have a melt temperature of 139-144°C. However, the closest prior art cited on this record (EP 881236) has used a process for making isotactic polypropylene which is the same as that claimed instantly except for a minor difference in the substitution at the distal position of the Cp ring. The reference uses t-butyl while the claimed process requires a cycloalkyl substituent. As shown in Table 1 of the reference, the T_m values claimed instantly are merely those obtained by the reference process. Therefore, although the patented claims are silent regarding T_m of the obtained polymer, the claimed range is the same range of values which those of ordinary skill in the art would expect.

In spite of the fact that applicants have stated that this application is a division of the parent application, the instant claims are not entitled to the protections of 35 USC 121 because the instant claims are drawn to the same type of invention as that prosecuted in the parent application.
